Meet Jeremy

I grew up surrounded by the dense forests of western Oregon. The endless acres of trees, ferns, moss, and the far-off sound of the North Santiam river provided the backdrop to a boyhood full of adventure. It was there that I turned my heart toward God, and it was there that I began to understand that the world is not as perfect as the patch of forest I grew up in seemed to be.

At the age of 17, I left home for seminary and never looked back. Along the way, I led a church in Northern Colorado, pastored angsty youth in Texas, huddled in the rain with persecuted believers in Myanmar, survived a massive earthquake in San Salvador, and served alongside women battling AIDS in East Africa. I've sung and danced joyfully with believers in Oregon and buried friends who died of malaria in Malawi. I've tasted more joy and glory and shame and loss than I knew was possible that day when I first left home.

Today, I am honored to employ my education and experiences as a communicator and counselor. My life's work is to serve as a kind and passionate guide for men and women who long to know God and live in wholeness. My experience with loss, poverty, and darkness around the world empowers my courage and kindness. My experience in the goodness and the presence of God empowers my hope.

I live in southwest Missouri with my wife Rachel and our three children. Our house backs up to a peaceful farm grazed by cows, wild turkeys, coyotes, and owls. When I'm not walking in the wilderness of the soul with Restoration Counseling I can often be found walking alongside men in the wilderness of the earth through Restoration Project, where I serve as the Director of Restorative Experiences.
